

HEALTH AND SAFETY POLICY

CQ Field Mining Services supplies fabrication and maintenance services to a growing number of clients in the fabrication, construction and mining sectors located in regional and remote locations throughout Australia.

CQ Field Mining Services is committed to providing a safe and healthy environment to all employees, contractors, visitors and suppliers who perform day-to-day duties on all sites. This policy and responsibility extend to ensuring that our operations do not place the local community or environment at risk of injury, illness or damage.

All CQ Field Mining Services operations will comply with relevant local, state, and federal legislation in relation to workplace health, safety and environmental issues, including Australian and international standards and codes of practice.

CQ Field Mining Services will commit to adopting a proactive approach to continually improving its performance in terms of health and safety control and awareness, education of workers, and be an active member in the community.

CQ Field Mining Services will strive to achieve its health & safety goals and objectives; and demonstrate full commitment to fulfilling its obligations and responsibilities. All management, employees and contractors will work towards achieving these goals, and abide by all rules, regulations and policies and ensure they are applied at all levels of the organisation.

We will work with our people to ensure we identify and manage our health and safety hazards and risks.

This policy will be communicated to CQ Field Mining Services employees, contractors and visitors throughout our operations. This policy will be subject to regular review to ensure it remains valid and relevant.
